INTINERARY

The average daily distance covered during the Baviaans Tours Leopard Bait Mountain bike Adventure is 55 kilometers, making it a total of 160 kilometers by the end of the adventure. This is by no means an endurance adventure, but it will put you to the test.

This mountain biking adventure is fully catered for on a four-night dinner bed and breakfast basis of which one night is camping with picnic lunches along the way.

The challenges that lie in wait for you on this mountain biking adventure are two major mountain passes, three smaller ascents and descents, various river crossings and wild South African bush in general. The majority of the time is spent in the heart of the Baviaanskloof Wilderness Area, where you are likely to come across buffalo, baboon, leopard, eland and kudu.

The road conditions that you will be faced with range from typical farm dirt roads to rougher mountain passes to 4X4 sections. While this is not an endurance mountain biking adventure, it does require a measure of mountain biking skill and fitness. However, if you are wary that you may not be up to all that cycling, perhaps you are not as fit as you may like to be, our support vehicle is there and you can hitch a ride at any time.

This mountain biking adventure is not just about the mountain biking and that is it. Oh no, it is about the experience, about experiencing South Africa from the saddle of your mountain bike. There is so much to see and do along the way such as stopping in by the Hippy Village, taking river swims or simply spending hours in trees getting to know your guide and adventure mates better while waiting for the buffalo to move along.
