INTRO

While magically sprouting feathery wings that will carry you up to the clouds like a bird may be a tad far fetched, flying isn't altogether that far to reach for.

INTINERARY

Paragliding is true powerless flight, gliding unaided by engines. You either launch off a hillside or are towed aloft, much like a kite, by a light, winched cable that is cast off when you are at a suitable altitude. After that you rely on thermals and updrafts to remain in the air.

Para-motoring, on the other hand, entails a light, but powerful motor and propeller being attached to the back of your pilot. Being self-propelled, you are able to take off from level ground, climb to a chosen cruising altitude and maintain it without relying on thermals and updrafts.

Lion's Head Paragliding Adventure Itinerary

One you have arrived at the launch site, you will be kitted out in the cool flight suit and helmet and take part in the mandatory safety briefing. The briefing consists of you are to do on take off, during the flight and upon landing again. After the briefing you are strapped to your expert pilot and from there prepare for takeoff and enjoy your first experience of non-airplane flight.

Please Note:

- No previous paragliding experience is required. You are seated and strapped to an experienced pilot in a harness.
- Passengers are required to sign indemnity documentation before participating in the Lion's Head Paragliding Adventure as they undertake this flight at their own risk.
- Passenger transfer to and from the paragliding launch site can be arranged
- Booking is essential and flights are dependant on the weather.

- The average length of a tandem passenger paragliding flight is 15 - 25 minutes.
